Water reuse is part of America's Water Future. With an extremely limited percentage of the world's water readily available for human use, highly treated waste water will be the source of choice where water is scarce. Water education helps us understand what water reuse is—and isn't. Visit americaswaterfuture.org to support water education where you live.

America's Water Future is a campaign of the Project WET Foundation, a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization (TIN: 20-0281441).
